

Same SQL, same selection quality — very different automation rates

Gray curves: each language's achievable risk-coverage trade-off (they overlap). Markers: where one English-calibrated threshold lands.

